

THE EMPRESS THEATRE CURRENT ATTRACTIONS

MISS du PONT in "THE RAGE OF PARIS"

Has a selfish, money-seeking mother the right to determine when her daughter shall marry? That is the question propounded by "The Rage of Paris," the Universal photo drama, coming to the Empress Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

"The Rage of Paris" serves as the first starring vehicle for the newest stars, Miss du Pont, proclaimed by many noted judges "the most beautiful blonde in America." Others in the exceptional cast are Jack Perrin, the handsome young leading man, Ramsey Wallace, Leo White, Eve Southern, Elinor Hancock, Madeline Brundage, J. J. Lane and Freeman Wood.

In the story, Mrs. Collidge refuses to allow her daughter, Joan, to marry the man of her choice, Gordon Talbot, the young mining engineer, who has nothing but a promising future. Mortimer Handly, a rich rogue, is the man Mrs. Collidge forces her daughter to marry. Handly humiliates and insults Joan by introducing his libertine friends to her home.

Throwing caution to the winds, and having been denied the right to live and love, Joan leaves Handly and goes to Paris. Under the name of Sonnetta Torres, her dancing takes Paris by storm and she becomes "The Rage of Paris." Handly, now desperately jealous, trails her.

Talbot, on a visit to Paris, sees the picture of "The Rage of Paris" at an art gallery. He sits enthralled by the painting. Joan happens to meet him at the gallery. The flame of repressed love, so long stifled, is kindled anew and she flees with her lover to Arabia. Handly finds out her intention and follows them.

The finish and startling ending of this remarkable production, directed by Jack Conway from Lillian Hubbard's picturization of Du Vernet Rabell's magazine story, "The White Peacock."

AMERICA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL BLONDE

She was the Rage of Paris, when she danced Paris hopped and wept in admiration. Yet, here she was on the sand-dusted desert of Arabia, far from the glittering throngs that worshipped her beauty and talent. She had come to join her sweet-heart, master of vast irrigation project. Little did she know that her disolute husband, from whom she had fled in disgust, was only a few miles behind her, racing, camel-back, to keep his wife from the only happiness she ever had.

This is one of the poignant situations in "The Rage of Paris," starring Miss du Pont, which comes to the Empress Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

"THE RAGE OF PARIS"

Miss du Pont, Universal star in "The Rage of Paris" declared that life in pictures had been just one thrilling, spectacular incident after another for her.

In "Foolish Wives," in which she is a featured player, she was burned by fire and drowned with water half a dozen times, while in "The Rage of Paris," she is caught in a terrific sea storm.

"I have a friend who is in comedies," said the beautiful blonde actress the other day. "She was telling me some of the exciting things she had to do to make the public laugh. She told of leaping off a building, diving off a rock into the sea and a few little things like that, but when I told her some of the things I had to do in drama, she admitted that my story was the best."

In Mr. von Stroheim's picture "I leaped from a burning tower into the sea, was forced to go by balloon and fall overboard out of a canoe into a lake, and remained on a couch that caught fire and burned all the dresses, even catching the sleeve of my negligee; all in a few days."

"However, the most difficult of all the thrilling scenes was the sand storm in 'The Rage of Paris.' I was simply choked with sand for days after, my lungs were so full of it, I felt as if my clothes were simply being torn off and as if I was losing my senses."

"The Rage of Paris" will be seen in "The Rage of Paris" at the Empress Theatre Friday and Saturday.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL BLONDE

"Who is the most beautiful blonde in America?"

Ralph Miller, noted California artist, and a host of others, have chosen Miss du Pont, the Universal star, as the pinnacle of ravishing sun-beam beauty.

Miss DuPont's debut to the public was made at the Empress Theatre next Friday and Saturday in "The Rage of Paris," a colorful drama of the West, of Paris, and of the Arabian desert.

Pioneers of Northwest

At the conclusion of the elections a most interesting speech was made by Commodore J. J. Roberts, of Vancouver division, who spoke as follows:

A world-wide reputation for the exercise of intelligence, tact, patience and courage, justice, and a square deal was earned by the North West Mounted Police over forty years ago, when it undertook the duty of making the great lone land of the Canadian west safe for the explorer, safe for the pioneer, safe for the settler, and even safe for the Indian.

The old force is no more—in its place is the newer creation of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, built up on and largely sustained on the reputation of the "Old Force."

The pioneers of the old force are passing away. Of those who made history for the Canadian west, only a few remain, and the government of Canada has today but a hazy recollection of the invaluable work done by them, and no doubt would be entirely forgotten were it not that at almost every session of the house of Ottawa some friend reminds our politicians that these old faithful servants are still waiting for some tangible reward for service acknowledged by the world as never having been equalled or excelled.

The buffalo, like the old force, have passed away, or nearly so, but the Canadian Government is doing something and spending considerable money to perpetuate and propagate the buffalo, but the men who made history for the Canadian west are allowed to pass away with claims unsettled and promises unrecruited. Rewards were given to others who served in the 1885 rebellion that are still denied to veterans of the old force. This is largely our own fault, because we have silently borne the cloud and insult all these years. Not even the medal was given us until years after, when the government, on the eve of action, thought it might be worth that expenditure to secure our influence in that election.

The citizen-soldier received his scrip; we did not. The present force receives $61 per day against our 50 cents, and a much larger pension at the end of fourteen years' service. There are men here who gave the best years of their lives in the force, and that life was far more strenuous and entailed many more hardships than now; and yet the paltry pension they receive is a disgrace to any land such as this, and the blame lies largely at the door of those who, from time to time, have controlled the management of the force. I will say that I know that the late Commissioner Irvine did make some effort to get the government to do the right thing, but Commissioner Perry told our association that it would not do for him to champion our cause as he was only a servant of the government. So, comrades, it still remains with you to do your own fighting, and while our claims are getting older, and our ranks thinner, surely this association should still have men in it who can raise a voice loud enough to make even our legislators at Ottawa stand up and take notice. We are only reminded when there is work to do. Even Col. Perry jumped at our offer to form a reserve force, when Canada was seething with sedition during the late war, and Mr. Bowell, president of the council, also quickly realized the value of the offer, and for once he spoke words of comfort to us veterans. This is what he said, in part:

"With reference to the veterans' association, I have but the highest regards. I think it only right to say that those men have made a very fine offer to the government, and I hope to have a bill introduced whereby (Now, listen to this!) these men who have served their country with such distinction may constitute a reserve which may be called upon in emergency."

And yet, this same gentleman tells us and the house, that as our claims were side-tracked by the government of Sir John A. Macdonald and the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, it was too late for this government to take the matter up. Too late to redress

- Ten year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1932.

While the maturing bonds will carry interest to 1st December, 1922, the new bonds will commence to carry interest from 1st November, 1922, GIVING A BONUS OF A FULL MONTH'S INTEREST TO THOSE AVAILING THEMSELVES OF THE CONVERSION PRIVILEGE.

This offer is made to holders of the maturing bonds and is not open to other interest holders. The bonds to be issued under this proposal will be substantially the same character as those which are maturing, except that the exemption from taxation does not apply to the new issue.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

The surrendered bonds will be forwarded by banks to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa, where they will be exchanged for bonds of the new issue, in fully registered, or coupon registered or coupon bearer form carrying interest payable 1st May and 1st November of each year of the duration of the loan, the first interest payment accruing and payable 1st May, 1923. Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

ROYAL NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE VETERANS' AN- NUAL MEETING

our claims, but still time to accept our offer of service.

South African War

In the South African war it was the same; services of these old veterans were gladly accepted, and their splendid record on the field added new glory to the old force and to the Canadian flag. In the last great war, it was the same story, the same efficient service, and again, to quote Mr.
Russell, who spoke to the house as follows: "I wish I had time to tell of the deeds of these gallant men of the North West Mounted Police, but I will only mention two, Michael O'Leary, V.
C., and Constable Park V. C. D. S. O., who set a standard of courage to be ever remembered, and I should also mention that ex-members of the force provided our army overseas with two major generals, four brigadier generals, and colonels, majors and captains by the score. It shows the type of men in the North West Mounted Police." But why others, what else would you expect? These gallant fellows are just doing what you old veterans did in your day, and that reputation and those traditions made by you will "Ever be the standard for all those who follow."

Are Intensely Loyal

And yet, the government of Canada still permits the stigma of 1885 to remain unredressed, and strange as it may seem, I want to say that, in spite of the treatment meted out to us, in all the empire you cannot find a body of men so willing and so ready to answer the empire's call. With all our kicking; with all our growling;
we remain intensely loyal to our empire and to that old Union Jack,
that flag that down through the ages has swept the seas, and been carried in the vanguard of a thousand battles, and proclaimed to the oppressor the death knell of his hopes, and to the vanquished the dawn of a brighter day.

We veterans of the Royal North West Mounted Police do not hand together solely for financial or other aids (though at times these must be considered). There is something more.
It is the interest in each other's welfare; remembering the joy in each other's joy; sorrow in each other's sorrow; pride in each other's success and the spirit of all for each and each for all, that should be the greatest aim of the association, and unless we keep this ever as our watchword, the success of this Association will never reach the heights of usefulness it should.

I have been told of some one asking:
"What benefit did we get by belonging to the association?" My answer is "Nothing," if you think, you have finished your work when you have paid your dues.

Membership in the association is nothing, and less than nothing, unless you are prepared to take your part and your share in making it the success it should be, and this can only be done by the cooperation and united efforts of the whole.

Therefore: If there be any here who feel that they have not been as faithful as they should, and perhaps a little too ready to blame the other fellow, comrade, turn over a new leaf and begin to find out what you can do to help in the work. You will find it interesting, from which you will derive the greatest pleasure, in knowing that you have been the means of helping to make it easier for some other one less fortunate than yourself.

ROD AND GUN FOR NOVEMBER

There are several different features in the November issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, which combine to make it a particularly attractive number. The well known writer, Harry M. Moore, is at his best in
"Sas' Ann," an interest-gripping tale, and there are other stories that are of a high quality. The article,
"Logs," descriptive of the logging and lumbering industry and of scenes and incidents in the lives of the bravest men who labor in it, is one of outstanding quality. The department, "Along the Trap Line," resumes in this issue, with Mr. M. U.
Bates as editor, and this should be guaranteed that the department will enjoy all its old success, and will be of the same high standard that it has been in the past. The other departments are of their usual excellence. "Guns and Ammunition" includes splendid articles by E. T.
Martin and E. T. D. Francis, as well as detailed accounts of the D. R. A.
and the O. R. A. matches, and the other regular features of the magazine are of similar quality.

Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by

A PROPER SUGGESTION

Quoted below is an extract from the Calgary Herald regarding the moral duty of the provincial Government in regard to providing for Mrs. S. C. Lawson and her small children, whose husband and father died in the performance of duty as a provincial police officer. The quotation is to the point—the government is morally bound to care for Mrs. Lawson and the children as its wards, and prompt action should be taken in this matter.

"The late Police Constable Lawson was killed while on duty. He leaves a widow and five children, the eldest twelve years old. The Herand undertake that the family of the murdered man has no legal claim upon the province for support, but there is a moral claim that can not be disregarded.

"We assume that the government will act promptly in caring for Mrs. Lawson and her children and that they shall become wards of the state."

"The government should make provision for such cases. It should be clear, beyond any doubt, that when an officer loses his life in the discharge of duty, as in this instance, sufficient and generous provision will be made for those dependent on him. This should not be a compassionate allowance, but a settled annual grant due as of right to dependents."

"Less than that will not be approved by the people of the province. The government should immediately make such provision for the Lawson family; and also provide for future emergency of the like nature."—Calgary Herald.

FASHIONS

Paul Poiret, famous French dressmaker and authority on matters of feminine fashions, announces that women's skirts are to be longer, and photographs taken of French netherlings where new styles are displayed show that it is so. But it is possible that women will not be content to have their styles modeled forever on those of the Rue de la Paix artists. The average woman is in no better case average than her styles. The extremely fashionable may wear longer skirts, but they will find it impossible to maintain them once more to the street if she is now tamed to throw away the fruits of victory just because some elderly male French dressmaker gives her the signal. The whole fashion world has been exposed. It will be patent that women wear certain clothes, not because they are becoming, but because of comfortable or hygienic, but because the French creators say she is to wear them, that their merits as garments have nothing whatever to do with the question and that these merits are more afterthoughts dragged into the discussion after the styles had been adopted.

There are many eyes for the fact of things are strongly inclined to the view that the average woman has never been so snugly and becomingly dressed as she is now. In the past few years the average woman has been dressed in the most unbecoming way at her knees, but has worn skirts that clear the ground by several inches and give the wearer almost as much ease of movement as men's trousers.

The average woman has not worn street dresses cut almost as low as evening gowns, but she has divested her neck of the collar, and her shoulders of their coverings, and her hair is the better for it. Robbed hair, it is obvious, is more suitable for certain types than for others, but even when it is least becoming it must be more sanitary and give the wearer less trouble than the long hair, the care of which is a preoccupation with many women. It will not affect much credit upon the intelligence of the well-known sex if women having so far advanced toward success and sanity in the matter of their clothing and coiffure will permit the imperative signal from Paris. Indeed, we have in the authority of David N. Mossolin, director of the Associated Dress Industries of America, that the American women have largely shaken themselves free from French influence, and while they have accepted hints and general outlines from Paris, they have adopted them to American tastes. The use of the word "American" in this sense is indicative of Canadian, for the styles in the two countries are much the same. The average American women are, perhaps, the best dressed in the world, and they will be foolish if they permit themselves to fall under the fashion sedition of any foreign authority.

GIRLS' SPORTS AND CLOTHES

Recently a heated discussion has been proceeding in Britain regarding the fitness of girls to indulge in all classes of men's sports. Some scientists have been taking the position that too much athleticism is injurious to a girl's physical health. They contend that hardening of the muscles, straining of tendons, and the knocking about of the body are not only against all rules of feminine grace, but actually injurious in effect on capacity for effective motherhood.

The Medical Society combined with directors of physical culture and others familiar with girls' sports to ascertain the effect of a strenuous athleticism. It found that girls are not debilitated, by physical handicaps, from doing anything that boys can do. They can run, jump, pull, or use any violent exertion without deterioration to their organic system. Girls in Britain have been going in extensively for football and other rough sport, and even wrestling and boxing have been adopted. It will be interesting to note whether the "outdoor" girl will be induced by the determined attempt of fashion dictators to restore her to Victorian modesty. The long skirts and full drapery effects are here. Already the girls are protesting and urging each other to keep their skirts short. The sporting girl resents being asked to swathe herself again in long, clinging robes. "Her Freedom" is wrapped up in the style that is passing—perhaps.

The steady growth of independence and love of outdoor sports among girls is removing the old, fatuous obstacle to fashion dictators. If the British girls' raids into sports hitherto thought fit only for men are imitated on this continent, to any extent, the rebellion will be about complete. Even now, the wearing of knickerbockers and short skirts is becoming standard, with a short covering skirt, is becoming common in the United States, and for touring, a regular khaki knickerbockers outfit is becoming standard. The girl sport and the girl veranda flower will have plenty to argue about now.

Harrington, the British commander-in-chief here, sent an ultimatum today to Mustapha Kemal Pasha at Smyrna by wireless, giving him 48 hours from the receipt of the telegram to withdraw his forces from Kam Kalesi (Kam Kalesi) at the entrance to the Dardanelles.

France in Complete Accord

Paris, Sept. 26.—France is in complete accord with the other allied powers in making the strongest effort to keep the Turks out of the neutral zone and avoiding all incidents, it was explained today in official quarters.

U. S. Approves Allied Proposals

Washington, Sept. 26.—Unofficial approval by the Washington government of allied proposals to insure freedom of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus, and also to protect racial and religious minorities in Turkish territories involved in the present Near Eastern situation, was expressed by Secretary Hughes today, in reply to an inquiry addressed to him by the Associated Press.

London, Sept. 26.—Despite the improved outlook for peace the British preparations to defend the Dardanelles continue in readiness for all contingencies. From Aldershot the following troops will depart tomorrow: Third Battalion of the Coldstream Guards; Second Battalion of the Royal Fusiliers, and the Second Battalion of the Rifle Brigade. These, with the Second Battalion of the Grenadier Guards, which left last Friday, will on their arrival in Turkey form a brigade. Other troops will follow on Saturday. The Highland Light Infantry and the King's Own Scottish Borderers have left Alexandria for Chanak, and a powerful fleet is assembling at the straits.

Powerful Fleet is Assembling

The super-dreadnought Revenge leaves Malta today with scaplanes for Constantinople. The super-dreadnoughts, Ramilies, Centaur and Malaya, and the light cruisers Ceres, Caldon and Caryfort and a third destroyer flotilla also are expected at Malta, bound for the near east.

The Vindictive and other war vessels have left Gibraltar for the Dardanelles.

London, Sept. 27.—Reuters Limited says authoritative news has been received of the abdication of King Constantine of Greece.

Red Cross Notes

The provincial Division of the Red Cross Society is making extensive preparations for the Finance and Membership Campaign which is timed to take place on November 5th ending on Armistice Day November 11th. Posters will be issued in every post office in the province direct from the Post-office at Ottawa, and all branches will be supplied with Campaign literature to assist in the great drive.

At the present time there are two hundred active branches and committees, and it is expected that between the present date and the termination of the drive, a further one hundred more will be organized. The province will be divided into four hundred districts, under the direction of a local committee.

It is confidently expected that there will be a generous and unanimous response to the appeal for funds, as the public are becoming more and more acquainted with the remarkable record of pioneer service in nursing the sick at points beyond the front of civilization. The latest and perhaps one of the best achievements of the Red Cross is the establishment in the city of Calgary of the first Sick Children's Hospital in Canada. To its doors are brought the maimed and crippled youngsters from all over the province, there they receive the skill and care that is only obtainable in a city hospital. The relief distribution of the drought stricken south country last winter brought comfort to many thousands of women and children in the extreme weather. At Brickburn Home the work has been carried on since the war of caring for the soldier's dependant, children, feeding, clothing and carrying on their public school education.

The new departure of health instruction of the people is part of the peace-time activities and is being conducted with considerable skill and resourcefulness.

It is no easy task to attempt to persuade the man in the street that he should take a health inventory of himself. The new health-education enables him to measure his health as a positive possession a treasure. By increasing its knowledge further gains adding to the capital of his personality.

The Red Cross is co-operating with the Public Health Departments and is setting the standards of public health higher each year.

In trying to reach this high standard it is conscious of the limitations, the limitations of lack of funds.

Prevention is cheaper, as well as better than cure, and serving humanity in the cause of health, the Red Cross recognizes the supreme importance of diminishing the world's suffering by broadening the laws that govern healthy living.

For this reason it maintains a healthy Library, rural baby-clinic, home nursing classes, moving picture and Lecture service carrying to the most distant points the gospel of Good Health.

Nor must we forget that in event of a national disaster or epidemic there is at Divisional Headquarters an Emergency and Relief Service ready at a moment's notice to cope with any crisis.

"By Royal Proclamation, His Excellency, the Governor-General of Canada has designated October 9th as Fire Prevention Day. During the week preceding lessons on fire prevention subjects will be given in every public school, public meetings will be held in many of the larger cities, towns and villages, and the owners and occupants of property everywhere throughout Canada will be counselled to give special attention to the removal of fire hazards from their premises.

"Fire waste is one of the most serious economic problems confronting Canada at the present time. The public in general is vitally affected by the tremendous losses annually incurred by fire and the enormous expenditures rendered necessary to adequately protect life and property from its ravages. Seeing that at least 85 per cent of all fires are caused by carelessness, and can therefore be prevented, it is the obvious duty of municipal authorities, fire department officials, boards of trade and other representative citizen bodies to bring the matter to the attention of the people."

The above quotation is from a letter addressed to the editor of The Macleod Times by the Dominion Fire Commissioner, and is published in the interest of fire prevention.

In Macleod Fire Chief Shield has taken the matter in hand, and the public and high schools have been asked to co-operate by the use of the questionnaire furnished by the government, which consists of suggestive questions regarding fire hazards and protective measures, which the children will take home and seek the aid of parents in filling out properly, and which will be conducive of much general interest in the matter, and consequent effectiveness in reducing danger from fire by reason of carelessness. Mr. Shield informs The Times that the Macleod Fire Brigade has mapped out a program for Fire Prevention week (October 2nd to 9th) involving the notice on the front page of this paper calling for a general clean-up between the foregoing dates, and the Brigade will make a general inspection inside the town limits with a view to ensuring that every proper precaution has been taken against fire hazards.

The general public of Macleod is urged to put forth every effort to co-operate with Fire Chief Shield and the Brigade, and do their part in making a general clean-up of rubbish about their premises, and in changing any conditions which may at present constitute a fire hazard—this before the general inspection by the Fire Brigade, which will commence on Wednesday, October 4th.

WILSON'S FLY PADS

PE-RU-NA COMPANY, 344 St. Paul St., Montreal

Scott got to Coleman he found that the younger Piccarillo had got through. Constable Lawson and Loughton had attempted to stop the flying run-roller and the former fired two shots, one of which wounded the driver slightly in the hand. They gave chase for a short time, but the boy had too much of a start on Lawson then returned to Coleman and talked the case over with Sergeant Scott.

On the way back to Blairmore Sergeant Scott met "Emperor Pic." They both stopped. "Well, you didn't get my boy and you can lay all the charges you like against me under the Motor Vehicle Act."

Lucky For Lawson

They had some further conversation and Piccarillo is alleged to have said that it "was lucky for Lawson that he didn't shoot my boy."

Piccarillo then returned to Blairmore and shortly afterwards Lassandra and a mechanic were seen speeding west, apparently on the trail of the younger Piccarillo. The old man picked up Mrs. Lassandra and went back to Coleman. It was about seven o'clock when he pulled up outside the little police station and called on Lawson to come out. As far as is known, Lawson talked to Piccarillo and the woman for a few minutes, then they both drew guns, one automatic and the other a .38 calibre revolver.

Lawson Warned

The only eye witnesses of the act were Lawson's two little girls, and their account of the affair is said to establish that Lawson grabbed Piccarillo by the arms.

Meantime the other woman, also probably partially held, began to shoot. She put two shots through the wind shield and one into the dash board of the car. Lawson, who was unarmed, apparently made up his mind to get his gun, lying on the table in the office not ten yards away.

Shot Through Heart

As he turned he was shot through the back, the bullet piercing his heart. He fell at the corner of the house and breathed his last five minutes later. Mrs. Lawson and three of the other children were in the residence part of the post, at the back.

Immediately afterwards the high-powered car driven with screeching wheels by the older Piccarillo, went careering down the street and turned to the west and then east on the road to Blairmore. It is thought Piccarillo and the woman hid themselves in the bush until late that night, when they came into the outskirts of Blairmore and took refuge in a deserted shack. The car was found at 1.45 on Friday morning on a side street in Blairmore. The search went on all night, detachment of police arriving by car in a continuous stream.

The mounted police, under Inspector Bruce, of Fernie, the British Columbia provincial police, under Inspector Danowsky, of Fernie and the Alberta provincial police under the direction of Inspector Bayin, Lethbridge, and afterwards Assistant Superintendent J. D. Nicholson, of Edmonton, carried on the long night search, covering the ground in a manner which made escape almost impossible. Inspector Bayin has the highest praise for the way in which the other forces co-operated in the search.

The preliminary trial of Emilio Piccarillo and Mrs. Charles Lassandra charged with the murder of Constable Lawson, A. P. P., has been definitely set for Monday, October 2.

Piccarillo Captured Friday at Blairmore

Coroner's Inquest

The jury came back after thirty minutes deliberation and rendered the following verdict:

"That Steven O. Lawson, Alberta Provincial Police, stationed at Coleman, Alberta, came to his death on September 21, 1922, at or about 7 p.m. in front of the A. P. P. detachment at Coleman, Alberta, by a bullet fired from a revolver in the possession of the occupants of a car standing in front of the Alberta Provincial Police barracks at Coleman."

The final scene of one of the most striking tragedies that has ever been enacted in the history of the Crow's Nest Pass was staged Friday noon on the hills just to the south of Blairmore, when Emilio Piccarillo, better known as "Emperor Pic," was arrested by a party of Alberta Provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police to be charged shortly afterwards with the shooting of Constable S. O. Lawson, on Thursday evening.

About one hour after Piccarillo was taken by the officers, Florence Lassandra, aged 25, wife of Charles Lassandra, an employee of Piccarillo, was arrested and also charged with murder. It is alleged that both took part in the killing of Lawson.

Non a Prisoner

Steve Piccarillo, son of the man who faces the charge of killing, is at present a prisoner of the British Columbia provincial police, having been taken at Michel while fleeing.

from Alberta police with a car full of liquor. Lassandra is held by the police as a material witness. Piccarillo was sent to Lethbridge on Friday afternoon under a heavy guard.

The Arrest of Piccarillo

The arrest of Piccarillo brings to a close a period of hectic activity on the part of a concentrated force of nearly 100 men, who were gathered in the pass from far and near when the alarm went forth on Thursday evening. Some 19 hours after the shooting, Piccarillo was a prisoner.

"Emperor Pic, King"

A man of about 50 years of age, Piccarillo stands 5 feet 8 inches, weighs nearly 200 pounds and has all the individual peculiarities of a character. He has been known for years as "Emperor Pic, King of the Crow," and a dozen other names, most of which said tribute to him as the leading bootlegger of the Pass. Piccarillo is a member of the Blairmore town council, is known from one end of the Pass to the other, in British Columbia and along the border. He and his son Steve, operated two high-powered McLaughlin cars, one of which he was sitting in when Florence Lassandra when he is alleged to have shot Lawson.

Is Quite Submissive

Piccarillo made no "last stand." He was taken while trying to climb a steep side hill after hundred yards south of the Blairmore brewery. Puffing and panting under his 200 pounds, the prisoner had little chance to get away from Constables E. Clark and E. Tutin, of the R.C.M.P., and Constable Brunner, of the provincial police, New Island detachment.

Inquires For Son

"How's my son?" were the first words of Piccarillo. After the constables had made a fruitless search for his gun, he was told that his son had only been slightly wounded in the hand the day previously, while making his escape from Constable Lawson with an automobile full of liquor.

"How's Lawson?" was the next question.

The constables told him that Lawson had died. The prisoner said nothing more.

Story in Detail

The story of the events leading up to the shooting of Constable Lawson, who is described by his comrades and friends as one of the "best ever," has been greatly confused in the telling, but the salient points as vouched for by the police are these: On Thursday afternoon, it is alleged that Piccarillo and his son, Steve, came into the British Columbia with a "load." The liquor was carried in a car driven by young Piccarillo, and his father conveyed him in an empty car. They made their way through Coleman and arrived at Piccarillo's home "The Alberta," in Blairmore, in safety, the son driving his loaded car to the back.

Sergeant Scott, Blairmore detachment A. P. P., approached the elder Piccarillo and told him he had a warrant for his arrest.

The grey haired veteran of many a run immediately made signals to his son and began to attempt to distract the attention of the officers. Steve drove for one block, circled round, and came thundering down the main street of Blairmore at 60 miles an hour.

A Wild Chase

Sergeant Scott and another constable immediately gave chase in their car, but the boy's father got his car ahead of them and kept them from passing. Sergeant Scott stopped and phoned a warning to Constable Lawson at Coleman, four miles west, then again took the road in the wake of the younger Piccarillo.

Emilio Piccarillo, however, displayed his best covering tactics, and kept the police car from passing him all the way to Coleman. When Sergeant

MISS A. M. WILSON

REACH & Co.

DRY GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES GROCERIES, Etc.

Last week the biggest snap of Ladies' Oxford Shoes was shown in our window. These were identical with what was sold in our big cities at $11.00 and $13.50 per pair. We offered them at $5.00. Goodyear welt; so flexible; and the sole so that it could be wound on the hand. The reason we offered them at $5.00 was that the toes were too pointed, and the American wells, but by taking half a size over in many instances it was a perfect fit.

Married—Cropper—Pharo—At St. Catharines, Ont., September 28th, 1922, by the Rev. J. Harper, Winifred Avis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pharo, of Macleod, to John Cropper, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Cropper, of St. Catharines, Ontario. The bride is a popular young Macleod lady, and the groom was a member of the Macleod detachment of the R.C.M.P. Police for three years, both contracting parties being well known locally.

An important action has just been decided by Mr. Justice McCarthy who tried the case here last May. The action was Peter Rizzi vs. C. Marinaro. The case was important in that it arose from dealing with land without any writing as required by the statute law. It appeared that in 1917 the defendant purchased a farm near Macleod and verbally agreed to sell the land back to the plaintiff for the same money plus 8% interest. The plaintiff went into possession and made considerable improvements but owing to crop failure could not pay anything on the original price. In 1920 the plaintiff had a good looking crop and had under the defendant's instructions obtained a purchaser for $5,500.00. The defendant after looking at the crop refused to sell and in the fall took the lions share of the crop. In 1921 he sold the farm and left the plaintiff without anything to his labours on the place. The action was brought for the plaintiff for the difference between the purchase price paid by the defendant and what the purchaser, less $150.00 which was for chattels sold with the land, namely $2,350.00. Counsel were: Jos. Hicks, of Macleod for the plaintiff, J. J. O'Connor of Calgary and J. W. McDonald K. C. of Macleod for the defendant.
